Sequence

A reusable 16:9 template — ten layouts, one theme, everything editable

Three kinds of slide carry most decks

01

Argue

A claim in the title, evidence underneath. The title is the message, not a label.

02

Show

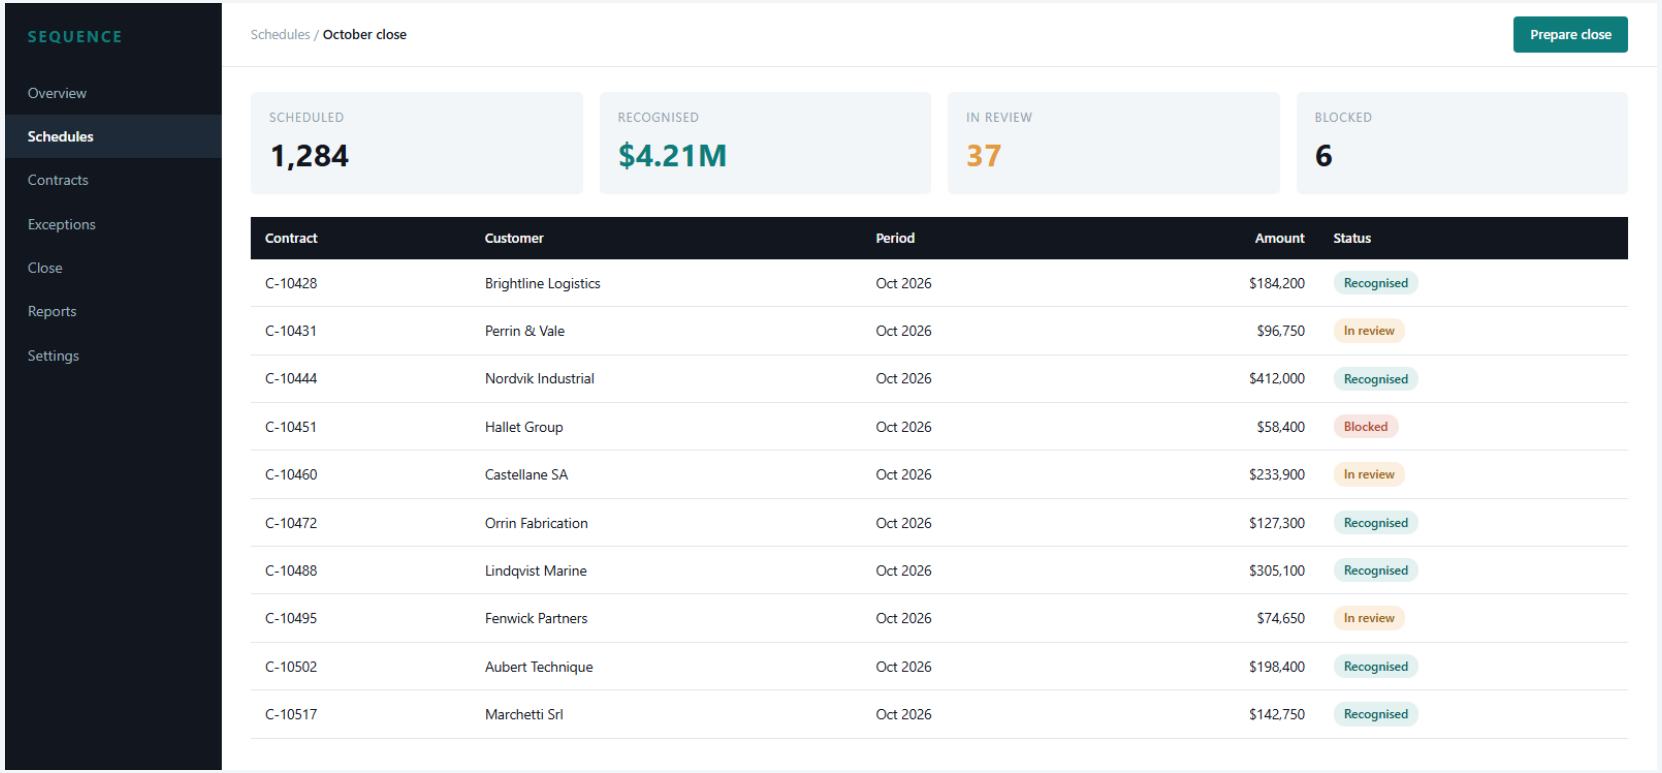

A chart, table or screenshot with commentary beside it.

03

Turn

A divider that resets attention and tells the room where it is.

The schedule view at month end

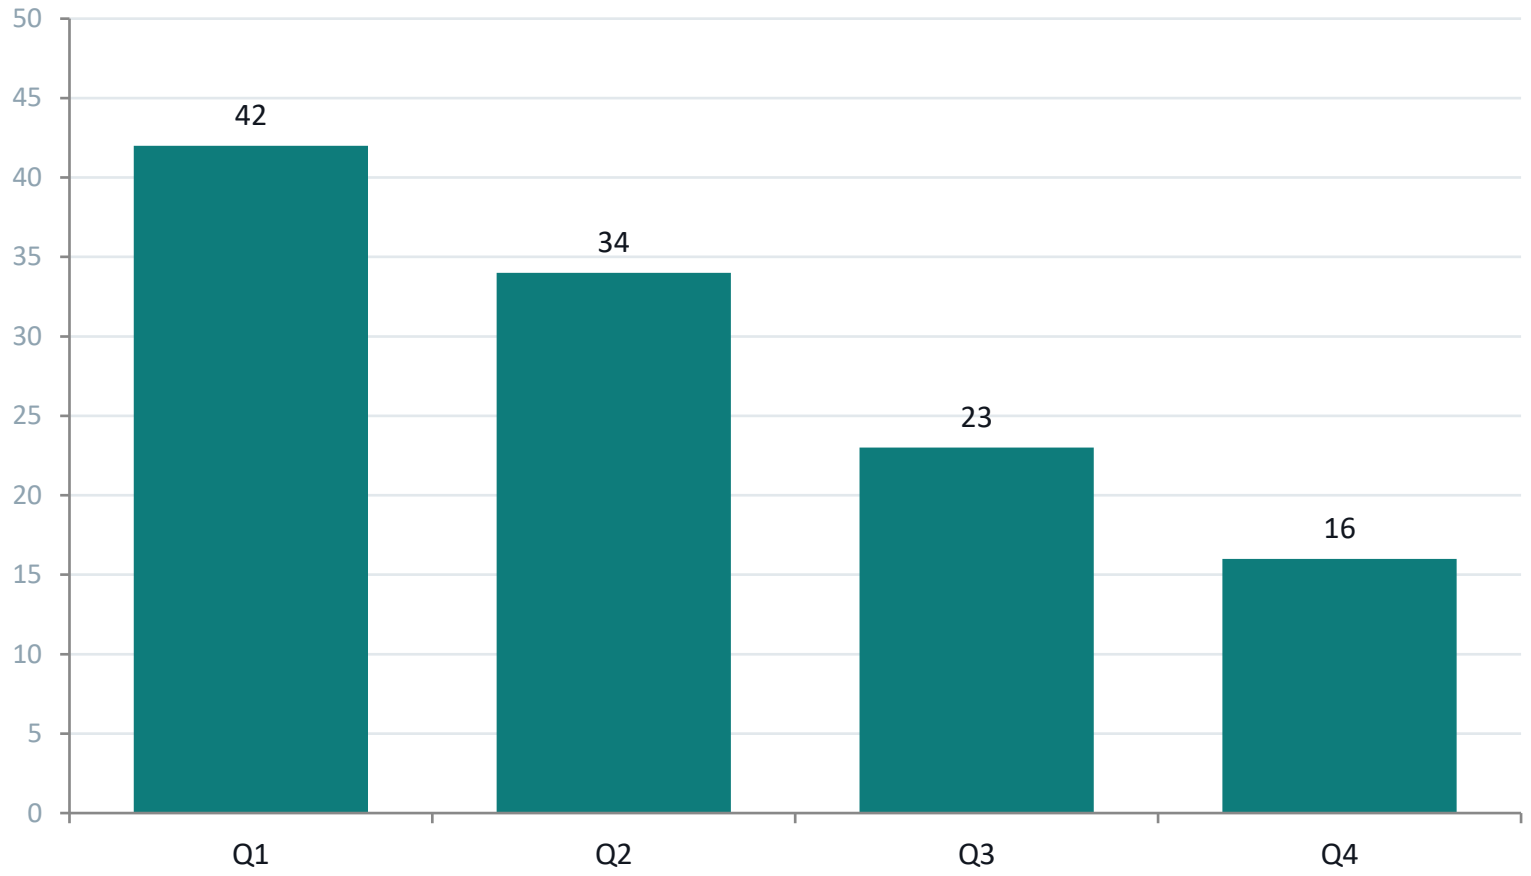

What to notice

Status is a pill, not a column of words, so the exceptions are findable at a glance.

Amounts use tabular figures so the column scans vertically.

Close effort falls as layouts take over

What this shows

Effort per deck drops as formatting moves out of the slide and into the layout.

The fall is steepest once chart and table styling is standardised.

Everything here stays editable

Text, shapes, tables and charts are native PowerPoint objects. Change the theme and the whole deck follows.
